THE ARGUS.

THE COLIER 42.

A PAMPHLET.

There was a day when the sons of God (the author of the Providence) came to plead their cases before the Lord (published his laws in Assyria) and Satan (the accuser) came also among them (while he retention is none).

And was this the only time that Satan preferred, so to speak, to attend the bar against God and his angels? Was this the only time the Lord's angels stood in the temple and flamed all the kingdoms of the world and the glory of them.

Then why not treat him, when he becomes a troublesome good, as we have treated him, under the name of Satan?—or why not follow the advice of St. James, "to resist the devil and he will flee from thee."—

Yet Michael the archangel was contend with the devil, (the devil) back to God, and it is said: again he made no entry in heaven, because he was afraid of the devil. And it is not Satan restrained from the same manner. But why should he not, let God be an equal chance—insure godliness.

For his tempest publishing was to belong to the bitter in the name of God, not to be according with the God, let the Archangel—Exemplary humility.

If he be "inspired" to publish grounds less information, if it be not a certain thing in the case as a general run. If he be such an example of the judgment of the question, let the reader judge for himself.

HENRY WEN."
ENTRELLIS.

VIENNA, Oct. 16.

It has been reported that the army, under the direction of General Mack, with 40,000 men, has been reconnoitering through the country. The French, in small forces, are in the environs of Vienna, and the allied army is expected to arrive at any moment, and to commence operations at once.

The troops of the French general, Desnoyers, arrived the day before yesterday, and yesterday they proceeded to the Minden, where they were ordered to march to the upper St. Lawrence.

The troops of General Eckhart and de Lellin are encamped on the left side of the Rhine, near Kauffeld, and are to march to Nassau, where they are expected to be in the neighborhood of the principal bridges. The Belgian cavalry is also reported to be on the move.

HENDENHEIM, Oct. 25.

A great attack is reported to have been made by the Prussians on the French fortress at Altenkirchen, and a vigorous defense was made.

LIMBOURG, Oct. 23.

On the 18th, the French army, commanded by General de Montreuil, crossed the Meuse and advanced to the left of the river, with the intention of taking the town of Liège.

The Prussians are reported to have been reinforced on the right bank of the Meuse, and are expected to attack the French army at any moment.

Other official accounts of the operations are not available.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 1.

We are informed that the French national flag will be unfurled in this city on the 18th instant, to be presented to the President, with whom it will be presented in the name of the city.

The French have notified the diplomatic representatives of the United States, the Russian, French, and Spanish, that they will be in Philadelphia on the 20th instant, and that they will receive a fair and impartial reception.

LEXINGTON, Nov. 22.

On Wednesday evening a citizen arrived in town, from Attorney General Gale, of Virginia, and Kentucky. He is the object of much interest and excitement, as he is the only person known to have been wounded in the battle at Yorktown.

JAMAICA, Nov. 25.

A remarkable instance of fitness was manifested by the French, in taking possession of the town of St. John's. They took the inhabitants, who were mostly French, into an adjoining field, and gave them to drink with the soldiers who were under the command of the governor of the place.

The French then advanced along the town, and captured the fort, without a struggle, and took possession of the town.

The French army, numbering about 40,000, marched on Wednesday night from the island of St. John's, and took possession of the town.

According to the reports of the day, the French captured the town without a struggle, and the inhabitants are said to have received them with open arms.

Bridgetown, Jan. 7, 1796.

The following influence of an attempt at a regular policy has lately been discovered in Philadelphia.

A merchant of this city, confident of success, in order to facilitate his creditors, proposed to undertake the trade of Brazil, and to supply the market with a considerable quantity of Brazil goods, according to the wishes of the merchants and manufacturers of this city. He was furnished with a certificate, in which he declared his confidence in the success of the undertaking.

The following is a list of the principal transactions of the month:

1. A sale of 200 bales of Brazil goods at a low price, to a merchant in Baltimore.

2. A sale of 100 bales of Brazil goods at a moderate price, to a merchant in New York.

3. A sale of 200 bales of Brazil goods at a high price, to a merchant in Philadelphia.

4. A sale of 100 bales of Brazil goods at a moderate price, to a merchant in Boston.

5. A sale of 200 bales of Brazil goods at a low price, to a merchant in New York.

6. A sale of 100 bales of Brazil goods at a moderate price, to a merchant in Philadelphia.

7. A sale of 200 bales of Brazil goods at a high price, to a merchant in Boston.
