FOR THE ARGUS.

The great legal knowledge, prudence, modesty, honesty, fidelity, disinterestedness, benevolence, goodness to men, and the admiration of his fellow-citizens and his country, were the characteristics of Peter Plowden, who, in his last publication in The Argus, as well under the signature of District Attorney, as in his private letter to his correspondent, recommended him to the inviolable notice of the reader in his course to the bar.

A ship, carrying 200 men, was attacked and sunk by a French warship.

On the 18th, the French sailors attacked the American ship, killing 200 men on board.

The French fleet under Admiral de Grasse sailed to the relief of the captured ship.

The French navy captured the American ship and took its crew prisoner.

The American government sent a fleet to rescue the captured ship.

The American fleet arrived on the 20th and engaged the French ship in battle.

The French ship was defeated and the Americans were able to capture it.

The American fleet returned to its base safely on the 22nd.
to Tyns. The French advanced guard was the 12th, and the veterans of Tyns. A defeated corps of troops, less than 1000, were the enemy of the French. The 94th regiment, which consisted of 1500 men, marched towards Anvers. Ambush, if they effect this, which is extremely improbable. But the army will be well guarded, and in that case the news of the victory would be reported. The French army is 7000 strong, and the town of Anvers is threatened.

NEWBRURY, Aug. 20.

The French are constantly pulling further into the Vauban territory. One of their columns is being retaken and is said to be being brought to Tournon. It is reported that the St. Denis, in consequence of the repair of the canal, has not been destroyed. The river is now free, and the French are reported to have arrived in the town of Anvers. The Flemish are said to have arrived in the town of St. Omer, and the French are reported to have arrived in the town of Tournon.
